Our latest patio set is designed and finished for the outdoors but is elegant enough to be used inside. Clear western red cedar is used throughout and exterior joinery creates a seamless look. The table and bench attain sophistication through their long and narrow dimensions.

Our classic chair is designed in a transitional style with a low back to encourage conversation and deep wide seats to give an expansiveness of space. The original stain is a soft dove grey meant to fade to the weathered look of cedar

For our current line we are experimenting with colour and love the bright fresh hues of red and green. However, we always want to ensure the grain of the cedar is evident.

The Table and the Bench attain sophistication through their long and narrow dimensions. Turnbuckles, often used in construction, are used on both pieces. It is a look based on practicality as the designer wanted to eliminate the apron traditionally used for stability on tables and to create a solid bench.

The result was a great look and more space underneath for diners ease of movement. The soft stain on the table is meant to age to the weathered grey of cedar but the luminous green of the bench catches the eye.

This Patio set has larger dimensions but it is made in a similar but more traditional style.
