

Installation was the biggest challenge in this unique pergola project. While it is actually quite massive, it seems to float off the back of the house and the asymmetrical posts line up beautifully. This was accomplished with steel beams attached to the front posts while have enough strength to hold up the entire structure. The view from above adds interest from the second story of the house.

PERGOLA AS SCULPTURE

Victoria, BC